COMMUNITY HELPS SHAPE PUBLIC HEALTH AND WELLBEING PLAN

Thank you to everyone who attended last week's Public Health and Wellbeing Plan Community Information Session.

CEO Sam Dolzadelli and Environmental Health Officer Laura Pikos led the session, with Shire President Stuart Boekeman also in attendance.

The session provided an opportunity for community members to share their thoughts on the health and wellbeing priorities that matter most to our community and to contribute to the development of the Shire's Public Health and Wellbeing Plan 2026–2031.

Community feedback gathered through the information session and survey process will now be reviewed and considered in the preparation of the Public Health and Wellbeing Plan.

Thank you to everyone who took the time to complete the survey, attend the session and contribute to this important planning process. Your feedback will help inform future priorities and actions that support the health and wellbeing of our community

CULTURAL AWARENESS TRAINING

This week, Shire of Wongan-Ballidu staff and Councillors participated in Cultural Awareness Training, providing an opportunity to learn more about Aboriginal culture, history and perspectives.

The training encouraged greater understanding of the experiences of Aboriginal people, the importance of culture and Country, and ways we can continue to build respectful and inclusive relationships within our community.

The Shire would like to thank the facilitators from Australians Together for sharing their knowledge and experiences, and for delivering an engaging and informative session.

Ongoing learning is an important part of fostering understanding, respect and connection within our workplace, Council and the broader community.
